Brunchies by Carey Sweet

TWENTY FIVE LUSK

Since executive chef-owner Matthew Dolan and co-owner Chad Bourdon opened the doors to this stylish spot in October 2010, they've continued to evolve their seasonally driven New American cuisine. And this is certainly a tasty addition: In February, the duo began brunch, served up in an array of temptations like Dungeness crab frittata ($14), lobster Benedict ($17), and the flat-out opulent duck confit scramble gussied in chanterelle mushrooms, baby spinach and fromage blanc ($12). Served Sunday, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.
